

Complexity in Organization Studies

SAGE Library in Business and Management

Edited by Stig O. Johannessen, Oslo University of Applied Sciences and Lesley Kuhn, University of Western Sydney

/// Four-Volume Set

This four-volume set lays out the philosophical foundations, theoretical orientations, and empirical explorations and research into the complex processes of organizing. Articles have been selected by renowned editors in the field, with the support of an international advisory board, for their coherence, differentiation, depth and originality.

This cross-disciplinary major work provides an essential reference for researchers and students seeking to understand real-life human organizing.

Volume One: Ways of Thinking about Complexity

Volume Two: Theorizing Complexity in Organization Studies

Volume Three: Implications and Applications of Complexity Thinking in Organization Studies: Strategy, Organizational Dynamics and Innovation

Volume Four: Implications and Applications of Complexity Thinking in Organization Studies: Leadership and Organizational Development

EDITED BY:

Dr. Stig O. Johannessen is Associate Professor of Organization and Leadership Studies at the Department of Behavioral Sciences, Oslo University College of Applied Sciences, Norway, and at the Royal Norwegian Air Force Academy. He also works as an independent consultant to major businesses and public sector organizations, specializing in complexity approaches. Dr. Johannessen holds a MSc in biophysics and a PhD in business management and organizational studies from the Norwegian University of Science and Technology (NTNU) in Trondheim, Norway. As a member of the international research and consulting community in complexity and management, he has for over a decade been involved in the development and application of complexity thinking in organization and leadership studies and published widely on these topics.

Dr. Lesley Kuhn is Senior Lecturer in Organization Studies in the College of Business and Law at the University of Western Sydney, Australia. She holds degrees in music and education, a master's degree in environmental science and a PhD in philosophy. For more than a decade Dr. Kuhn has been active in bringing complexity thinking to philosophical and social inquiry and to ethnographic research. She has researched across a broad disciplinary domain and has led consulting projects for governments, corporations and universities nationally and internationally. She specialises in postgraduate education, where she has supervised a large number of PhD and master's research students. Dr. Kuhn also has an extensive publication record.
